The sight of a man who doesn't want an office is said to be a great comfort to President Cleveland just now.

Sax Jones is killed for Owensboro the first of May. There will be a general stampede among the people from this section to hear him.

This cyclone which swept over Michigan last week killed four persons, and destroyed several hundred thousand dollars worth of property.

The Good Roads Convention which met at Bowling Green last week adopted a resolution favoring the working of convicts on the public highways.

It is reported from Washington that the President will not consider the applications for Internal Revenue Collectorships in this State until next June.

Postmaster General Bissell is besieged by five hundred applicants each day who want a post-office that pays anywhere from ten to one thousand dollars annually.

In Hardinsburg can't raise that $4,000 just step down here Professor and Cloverport will put it up. She knows a good deal and will put up the stuff to get it too.

Nonoy in this county seems to have the check to offer for the next Legislature. Probably that think there is to be none or that they will become gray before they hear the last of this one.

All the Blue-White converts are getting ready to be converted again when Sam Jones comes—Owensboro Messenger.

And why not? When the thread is one spun (it should) be woven into holy cloth. See, Ury?

Is the matter of holding office as in many other things, it seems to prefer the man. In Kansas City, only six out of about four thousand women voted for the female candidate for Mayor.

The extension of the Owensboro Falls of Rough and Green river railroad from the Falls of Rough to a connection with the Newport News and Mississippi Valley at Horse Branch was completed last week.

Dooring going to the World's Fair should run clear of cheap boarding houses. Anyhow you shouldn't be in too big a hurry to start. The great show will not get fairly under way before the first of June.

The citizens of Frankfort will wake up some fine morning to find that the city of Louisville has walked off with the State Capitol. A more concerted, united business effort was never forth before for as seems to be on hand now for that purpose.

That speech from Senator Lindsay before the Watersbury club in Louisville last week serves to strengthen him in the estimation of his constituents, and prove that he is as loyal as Carlisle, has as big a brain as Beck and is as flowery as Breckinridge.

There is to be a mighty big Republican assembly in Louisville the 10th of May. Sort of an experience meeting where the boys can tell it over again, how that thing happened last fall, and why so many of them are now out of a job. The News will give the particulars in detail for the benefit of its Republican readers here and elsewhere.

It is improper persons get into the post-office, gives the Assistant Postmaster General the fault will lay with the Congressman. Then the Congressman will not be at fault if first he ascertains that will of the people in a way to their preference. He should be given to govern to by a majority of those who have the largest business interests to consider.

A WORD ABOUT OUR PREMIUMS.

Our patrons will please bear in mind that we have nothing to do with the distribution of the premiums further than to arrange the list, which is done in advance before any names are entered. Subscriptions are entered in the order in which they are received, and the attention being paid to the premium. A certain per cent. of the subscription price is set aside for premiums, which are given as an inducement to new subscribers and to old ones to renew. Instead of giving say fifty or a hundred large premiums we give every paid-in-advance subscriber a premium, valued at 25 cents up. It is fair and legitimate and we aim to treat every body alike. We hold that the paper is worth a dollar of any man's money who cares for it at all, regardless of the premium. So when you send in your subscription don't expect a house and lot, a farm or a gold watch, for we have none on the list nor do we expect to have any. If you want one of the best papers in the State and one that gives you all the news of your town and county, send us a dollar and we'll insure you a premium of some kind.

Why not trade at Dill's? You will find his line of goods as cheap as the cheapest and you can in addition obtain a nice picture, book or spice cabinet.

The much abused March. Gardens are in "statue quo," chickens pecking, flowers drooping, people chilling, in consequence of her unseasonable behavior.

Prof. T. T. Arnold of Washington City, has been sentenced for four years and six months for manslaughter. An appeal, however, will be taken. Prof. Arnold taught here some twelve or fifteen years ago. He was highly educated and a courteous, polished gentleman, brilliant in conversation. Like other such men he formed an unhappy alliance, which resulted in his present disaster to domestic happiness. He was for some time in Texas, then he drifted to Washington where his troubles have culminated.

I enjoyed the letter from Tobinsport, Ind., immensely and am glad he or she gave the quotations from the Bible on dancing. I won't have to hunt them out. Any amusement, dancing, "sawp," "trill and jazz," is wrong when carried to excess or indulged in to the neglect of more serious or important duties. A social home, dance and all, is wrong, it seems to me, is wrong as soon as a church school where city games are played and worldly conversation carried on. But "Be it unto you according to your faith." Let us be his or her own judge. If we love God, keep the commandments, observe the beautiful Beatitudes in Christ's sermons, love our neighbors as ourselves, have charity towards all, these matters sink into insignificance.

Commissioner Babbage sold the Clark farm at the Court-house door last Monday for the sum of $11,000. Walter S. Clark was the purchaser. Jas. L. Frank bought the Andrew Frank land near Jolly's station at $300. Benjamin and James Flood, four acres near Stephensport, at $80. The Clark property in Cloverport was not sold because of some irregularity in the judgment.

Newsom-Jabine.

Cloverport Society Pulled Up Short by an Unexpected Wedding.

A SURPRISE TO EVERYBODY.

Never before was Cloverport society so thoroughly surprised, as it was last Saturday morning when it became generally known for a fact that Dr. R. L. Newsom and Mrs. Jennie Jabine were married.

Last Wednesday morning Mrs. Jabine and Miss Lela Henley went to Louisville "on a shopping expedition." They were followed on Thursday by Dr. Newsom, who "ran up on a little business." The fact of these parties being in Louisville created no comment, because they visit that city often. This time Dr. Newsom invited the ladies and a license being procured the wedding was consummated.

They were married in the parlors of the Fourth and Walnut streets Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock p. m., Thursday evening, the 13th, last. The Rev. Dr. Eaton officiating. The only witnesses were Geo. S. Allison, cashier of the Second National Bank, Louisville, and Miss Lela Henley, of this city.

The wedding party returned to Cloverport on the 10 o'clock train Friday night and have been receiving the congratulations of friends since. They have rooms at the Cloverport Hotel and will remain there 'till the Doctor builds a new residence which will be commenced soon.

CUSTER.

C-a-n-o-y-o-r.

Greens eat nicely now.

Very little visiting done.

Mrs. Nannie Hall is very ill.

Mrs. John Comer is no better.

Keep a look out for that wedding.

The night did not amount to much.

We understand Mr. Cal Fickell wishes to buy a new little farm.

Mrs. Oscar Alexander is visiting her father and mother this week.

We have it! See it in our correct.

C-a-n-o-y-o-r. He is in town again.

Mr. Joe Pile is in town Saturday.

He had just arrived from Pleasantville.

The Church Cleaning Committee say, "Please do not expectorate on the church floor."

Mr. Joe Pile will farm this season. He has abandoned the idea of going to school.

The Sunday school hour has been changed from nine o'clock, a. m., to two o'clock, p. m.

The fruits are arranged in all their beauty now. If there are no more frosts fruit will be plentiful.

The musical ring of the blacksmith's anvil is heard on the breeze. They too get their quota of work.

Preaching here on Saturday night before the second Sunday and the second Sunday at 11 o'clock, in each month.

The time to do the white wash and plenty of it. Up to your out-buildings and fences and see how nice they look.

Constantine is not far; in consequence Custer boys often ride over on Sunday morning to see how the girls are getting along, and vice versa.

Mr. Elijah Tucker, who some six weeks ago went to Missouri to look at the country in order to locate his country school, has returned very much pleased with the outlook and now thinks he will make Missouri his permanent home this fall.

Mr. Betsy Ely has divided her farm among her several children. We understand she will make her home with her youngest son. Her children met April 12th for the purpose of a division.

Mr. Wes Oliver, of Big Chilly, contemplates buying out all the heirs who desire to sell.

Custer youngsters have a hard time to get together. The old folks do not believe in gatherings, such as parties or excursions. One in a while they are prevailed upon to let the young people have a sing, but then the youngsters are doomed to keep their eyes fixed on the old folks and not peep at the boys or else they are talked about.

Mr. Babe Nimmo in attempting to alight from a colt struck his leg against the fence causing his horse to jump and run. It threw him violently against the ground on his hip, dislocating the joint. He was dragged some distance before the horse was stopped. Mr. Nimmo has the sympathy of the community. He has a great deal to contend with lately.

The Church church needs a regular spring cleaning. And when it is nicely cleaned (we heard some ladies say) they were going to act as a committee and clean it themselves) let every man see to it that he individually refrains from cheating during church services. It brings a blush to the cheek to see the church clean in its present condition, and to think it is a house dedicated to God for shame.

April 13th, 1922.

MR. BUTTER MAKER: Dear Sir—If other friends had not so kindly volunteered me of the spelling of your name I should with much pleasure, if ever opportunity offered, avail myself of your invitation to call on you at your new residence.

Respectfully,

A LOVELY WEDDING.

The Marriage of Miss Nannie Stephens and Mr. Caldwell Norton.

One of the grandest social events that has occurred in this section of Kentucky for quite a while was the Norton-Stephens wedding last Wednesday evening at Maple Hill, the beautiful country residence of the bride's parents.

Dr. T. T. Eaton, of Louisville, performed the ceremony.

The wedding occurred at 8 o'clock p. m., in the presence of more than a hundred guests, who had assembled from different parts of the state.

An elegant wedding dinner was served after which the guests dispersed. A special train departed at 11 o'clock p. m., for Louisville, bearing the young couple and many happy guests, who had accompanied the groom from that city. Mr. and Mrs. Norton left Louisville the next morning for a tour of several weeks through New York and other Eastern cities.

The bride is a beautiful and accomplished daughter of James G. Stephens, of Hol, who is well-known throughout Kentucky. She is quite a favorite in Cloverport and Louisville society and is universally loved and admired by all who have been so fortunate as to be within the radius of her sunny smiles.

The groom, Mr. Caldwell Norton, is of a prominent and wealthy family also well-known throughout the state. He will bring his bride to his elegant Jefferson-county home, near the suburbs of Louisville.

SOME MOTHER'S BOY.

Young man, you leave a father's home, O'er this cold, dark, world to roam?
Are you not that father's only joy?
Are you not some dear mother's boy?

Oh, wanderer, in a stranger's land,
With weary foot and toil-worn hand, A home and friends and love and joy, Await thy return, O' wayward boy.

Oh, son of the West, since in youth thou hast Strayed,
And with beasts of the wild-wood, thy home Hath made,
Thy stayings, thy parents at home assay,
For they weep as they pray for their wandering boy.

As the sun, the western sky, descends, As he, on his way homeward, winds, Thy father thinks of thee in a distant land,
And from his eyes fall the tears on his toil-worn hand.

Though an outlaw or dweller of rocky caverns, Or a way-worn guest of wayside taverns, Though, an outcast and stranger to peace and joy, Though a prodigal son, you are some mother's boy.

Though a lover of riches of cards or of gin, Though vile, debased or fallen in sin,
If you are an heir of sorrow or joy, Though combers or lawless, you're some mother's boy.

No matter how deep in villainy you've been,
No matter how long you've slept in sin,
No matter how low your standard of joy, Though lost and undone you are some mother's boy.

That mother who prays doth ever ascend, That mother who is ready and willing to lend,
For your comfort, your welfare and joy, Two tender, loving hands to some mother's boy.

Do you think my boy in midnight's silent hour, While you witness the Creator's wonderful power, Do you think as you sit alone in this world of care, Will God ever answer my mother's prayer?

Dear boy of the shop, of the office or store, Thy loving mother's prayers may exceed all other,
If you are thoughtless and careless, neglectful And dull,
Though these prayers are in earnest, you can Make them null.

Though she pray, extant and inspire, Will you, her prayers and entreaties, ignore?
And if she counsel, advice or request, Will you still turn away and say I know best?

Will you turn from that mother with tear-stained eyes,
With a soul full of prayers and a heart full of sighs?
Will you turn from that mother, so kind and so true, Will you say to that mother, I know the best way?

That mother for your weakness, her prayers Doth repeat,
While kneeling with meekness at her Savior's feet.

Will you flee from the light, Consent to the wrong,
And take the downward flight,
With the unnumbered throng?

Of sin, death and hell, Oh! will you never tire?
Do you love the dark road and sin's bloody mire?

If all these pleadings and prayers be in vain, Then tell thy kingdom, in hell thou shalt Reign.

Come enter the fold and never more roam, Abide in the Saviour, the prodigal's home.
Come rest your puny arms, your weapons lay Down,
And accept from the father a star-embellished crown.

Come from those slums so dark and so deep,
And say to that mother you may cease to weep, Then turn to the world and show with pride and joy, Dear friends pray for me, a Christian mother's boy.

A CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK.

Dr. Milton Board Responds Elo-quently to a Toast at a Banquet.

The Natural Gift of the Father is Developed in the Son and He Makes the Welkin Ring

A SPEECH WORTH READING.

At the first annual banquet of the Alumni Association of the University of Louisville, Medical College, the Milton Board, son of our respected County Attorney, Judge Milton Board, made the following remarks in response to the toast, "The Old."

"FELLOW-GRADUATES, HONORED FAC-ULTY, GENTLEMEN OF THE ALUMNI.—The graduating class of 1893 is especially noted for two things—first, we are the largest class that ever left forth from the walls of the university; and, secondly, we have, with the assistance of certain members of the faculty, together with some former graduates of our celebrated school, succeeded in releasing from a long-term imprisonment an obscure of the college who owed his incarceration to the lethargy of those who beget him and his long-term imprisonment to the lack of ambition on the part of former graduates. I refer, gentlemen, to the alumni who cause forth tonight in a full dress suit receiving a greater ovation at this, his eleventh, anniversary than he did at the time of his birth.

May the newly formed alumni be perpetuated, may the example set by our matchless class be followed by the graduates of future years, and may the anniversary of this occasion be celebrated in keeping with its importance and reflect credit upon the institution from which we go forth.

During the last few days since examinations were concluded (I had little time for it before) I have been much given to retrospection. I look back to eighteen months ago and see most of us (country boys) making our way to the beautiful metropolis of the "Bluegrass State," filled with vague ideas of a medical college and what goes to make up a medical student's life, never dreaming until we have reached our destination and been at least partially initiated that we would find anything else than a set of serious, thoughtful men, whose sole object in being here was to study that noblest, most fascinating of professions.

If such thoughts were yours, as they were mine, fellow-classesmen, how sadly were we disappointed.

STUDENT'S VARIATIONS.

We remember the morning of our matriculation; how a civil, polite gentleman in a characteristic blue suit sat in the Dean's office before the hour of 10, and we wondered if he were Prof. Boling, how important second-course men were, as they introduced each other to us, recent emanations from a cornfield.
"Doctor," said thought how important we ourselves would feel as when a year hence we would do the same thing. The coming spring was a time for separation, the advent of autumn was a period of resembling, now down again to work after the usual greetings and handshakes. That which was dark and mysterious in our junior course, now began to unfold itself in considerable extent, and we understood, prior to the development of a certain disease, of which I shall have occasion to speak a little later, and with the idea of our own self-improvement and begin to imagine that we are fast approaching the meridian of professional life. The disease to which I refer is "Green Room Fever." Its etiology is traceable to the knowledge which students have of the fate of some former candidates for graduation, to the timely warnings of certain members of the faculty and a consciousness, to which they are at last aroused, of their individual weakness on matters pertaining either to practical or scientific medicine.

THE SYMPTOMS.

The symptoms are much restlessness, increasing with the wane of the month of February, a constant disposition to talk, and that about their own disorder, and finally develop a symptom, having much to do with the favorable termination of the disease—i. e., a constant, uninterrupted desire to study. The character of the disease is peculiar, in that it strikes both of the typhoid and intermittent type. It is usually epidemic, occasionally endemic, but never occurs sporadically. Finally, another distinguishing feature which it manifests—it comes to an end by crisis on or about the 8th of March; there is much rejoicing among the many, much lamenting by a few, and altogether a good deal of noise is made sufficient to remind the citizens of Louisville of certain localities that another commencement day is at hand.

I quit day-dreaming and came down here to attend this banquet with the words of Charles Dickens ringing in my ears: "Such are the changes which a few years bring to pass and the things pass away like a tale that is told."

Gentlemen of the graduating class, I toast you. Few and pleasant have been the days we have labored together; many and arduous may be the years we may still together; there be sentiments rising up in human hearts never expressed; these are thoughts, originating in the human brain, inseparable; such are my thoughts, such are my feelings on the present occasion. Tonight we assemble around this festive board, to consider a fitting social manner our associations together, together we go forth into our respective fields of labor, and in a few days we will be as widely separate as the distant regions of our great country will allow. There is but one way by which in the after-coming years, we can keep trace of each other, and that is by the perpetuation of this organization, which we are tonight celebrating. Will we let it go down, as our predecessors, who were its original founders, or will we vie with each other tonight to do all in our power to preserve its healthy, active organization? Do the latter, fellowclassesmen, and in future years our class will still be noted, our example will be followed by those who come after us, reflecting credit upon each and all of those who graduated in 1893.

SUBJUGATION.

The interference of the Government with Labor Unions Discussed.

It Will Lead to Rebellion or Slavery.
Or the Federal Government Will Own and Operate the Railroad.

THE RICKS DECISION.

In discussing the recent decision of Federal Judge Speer in the Ricks case, the St. Louis Republic speaks as follows:

FEDERAL CONTROL OF LABOR UNIONS.

"The decision of Federal Judge Speer is that a receiver appointed by the Federal Courts must carry out a contract with the Engineers' Brotherhood made before the receiver was appointed; and in view of the decision of other Federal Judges in like cases, it is a conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce, it is looked on as giving legal recognition to the Brotherhood as a party to a contract made by the agent of the Court itself.

It is not the affair of the Federal Courts to interfere with this Labor Union either to "recognize" it or to attempt to suppress it. Men have as much right to organize a Labor Union as they have to organize a church, and they are responsible as individuals for their individual acts. It is the business of the courts to deal with them as individuals and not as members of a church, a labor union or any other organization formed for lawful purposes.

But the intention of this Federal Judge is not to give the Brotherhood a legal status. He strikes it a blow "below the belt." In pretending friendship for it he is merely introducing the declaration that it will be controlled by the Federal Courts hereafter under the provisions of the Sherman act.

"A combination of persons," he says,
"without regard to their occupation, which would have for its effect the defeat of the provisions of the Interstate Commerce law inhibiting discriminations in the transportation of freight and passengers, would be liable to the severe penalties of the statute. Now if it is true that in any considerable strike upon transportation lines of this country, whether main lines or branch roads, there would be interference with interstate or foreign commerce, it will be practically impossible hereafter for any body of men to combine to hinder and delay the work of the transportation companies without becoming obnoxious to the provisions of these laws."

This is a notification that the Federal Courts have assumed control of Interstate Labor Unions under the Sherman act and the Interstate Commerce act and that they mean to break down any Union that strikes in such a way as to interfere with the convenience of the railroad companies.

This declaration is made earnestly, and it means direct ownership of the railroads by railroad or civil war. Perhaps this is not the alternate, but it seems to us that when the Federal Courts fully inaugurate this new policy of imprisoning men for belonging to Labor Unions and agreeing to quit work there will be great bloodshed in this country unless the Government takes full possession of the railroad property and operates it in the name of the people. A socialism that turns the baptism of the country against labor, as would be done under this proposed Federal control of Labor Unions, would only be tolerated after the complete subjugation of all it is proposed to oppress. Perhaps such subjugation is possible, but certainly not without the sacrifice of thousands of lives and hundreds of millions in property. The corporation judges on the Federal bench appear to be utterly reckless of consequences.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RAILROADS.
Mr. Powderly is not complaining of it.
He thinks that, while it is against the men employed by the railroad companies, it emphasizes the right of the public in railroad property, and says "It is a poor rule that will not work both ways."

Mr. Powderly is a Socialist, who believes in confiscating railroad property by forcing the holders of taxation to it, or by some other method that will enable the Government to take charge of the roads and to operate them as public property.

Every socialist that has the least sympathy with the labor movement, who believes that the Government should own the railroads, and to operate them as public property, is in the hands of the Socialists.
For, if we are to have this tyrannical interference through the abuse of the power of the Federal courts, an overwhelming majority of the American people, including the most pronounced opponents of centralized Government, will conclude that the Government ownership of the railroads is a less evil than private ownership of men.

As the case stands now, railroad corporations engaged in controversy with their employees can use the men they have put on the Federal bench and through them can have American citizens imprisoned for striking. The man who cannot strike for higher wages and better treatment is no longer free, and the use of the Federal courts for slave-driving purposes can only be justified on the assumption that either the public or some private employer has under the wage system such rights of ownership in the person of the laborer as were formerly claimed by feudal lords over their serfs. Those who study history will remember that the great uprising of laborers in the Middle Ages was due to an attempt to re-establish the claim to property control of the person of the laborer. This claim the Federal courts now make in the name of the public but in the interest of the corporations which have packed the Federal bench with their agents and henchmen.

If the Federal courts maintain their present attitude it is hardly doubtful that the Government will assume the ownership of the railroads, compensating the present owners in accordance with that same great principle of equity illustrated in dealing with the owners of negroes, who were recognized as property by the Constitution and laws of the United States.

LINCOLN will make the season of 1893 at my place 1-1-4 miles East of Bewleyville, Ky.

As to his breeding, it is royal, in fact we will say that his blood lines are so uniquely blended with the Danish, by his sire and dam through his renowned ancestry, on through the veins of the four-mile race horse Denmark, and back until the savor of such blood is lost in seas of perfection on Oriental continents. Bred as he is, with the bone, body, size, style, color and kindly disposition he possesses, we claim him the best all purpose stallion in Western Kentucky.

Crafton Cunningham, of McConnell & Cunningham, commission merchants, Louisville, started last Monday on his regular annual trip to buy southern products and dispose of the products of other climes which his house handles.

Mr. Cunningham is at Chenault, this county, and he is one of the Breckenridge boys that is making his mark in the outside business world. He has just returned from a business trip to New York and other eastern states.

FIFTY-FIVE DOLLARS.

The Amount That Ben Bates Swiped From Wm. Downs Last Saturday Night.

Young Ben Bates is into more trouble. He is yet at large, but ex-Sheriff DeJette is hot on his trail, and should he be captured, the chances are that a term in the penitentiary will be his lot.

Last Saturday evening Wm. Downs, a prominent Breckenridge county farmer, was in Hardinsburg, and falling in with Bates, the two had several drinks together.

At night they stopped at the old Hambleton House, and occupied the same bed. When Downs awoke next morning Bates was gone, and on examination Downs discovered that he had been robbed of about $55.00. He immediately suspected that Bates had been taken for a warrant and was consequently issued for Bates arrest.

No trace of the young man could be found about Hardinsburg, and it was later discovered that he had boarded the 10 o'clock train on this city Sunday with a ticket for Louisville. The officer was then started on his track, but as yet it is not known that he has apprehended his man.

The history of young Bates is not a commendable one. He has been into trouble frequently, and it is only through respect and sympathy for his family, that he has not already been sent over the road.

Only a few weeks ago he forged the name of Walter Haynes to a note for $10.00 and "shaved" it with Dr. R. L. Newsom. For this he would have been arrested, but his mother finding it out, right matters with the Doctor, and the affair was hushed up.

Wm. Downs the man he has robbed this time is a prominent farmer in the neck part of the county. He has the one fault, however, of getting drunk nearly every time he goes to town. Last Saturday when he went to Hardinsburg he went around and put up all his debts, and transacted some other necessary business and then proceeded to fill up.

After deducting the amounts of his necessary expenditures, for which he has bills and receipts, and making a liberal allowance for his whiskey expenditures, Mr. Downs arrives at the amount of which he claims to have been robbed.

It is reported that Bates exhibited about that amount of money to friends in this city Sunday morning before he boarded the train. Circumstantial evidence is strongly against him.

Carter's Stock Sale.

Friday is an day at Lexington, for stock sales especially. It either snows or rains just enough to keep the public indoors and at home. But notwithstanding the bad weather there is always a fair crop of people and a good number of the very best farmers and stockmen, who come for business.

The stock offered last Friday was all sold and brought good prices with the exception of the horses which were in no condition to sell and consequently went low.

The cattle, sheep and hogs sold readily at fair prices and Mr. Carter was well pleased with them, and feels encouraged with his venture and expects to make these sales a yearly feature. He promises however to have his stock in better condition next year.

There were several buggies and spring wagons sold at prices that pleased both seller and buyer.
